MH

Although I am late getting the news of my brother's passing, I simply MUST say goodbye to a great man and friend. I spent many years doing everything I could to take my own life. During these years of self destruction, which were a direct result of a divorce, and subsequent loss of not only my wife, but also my children, I was lost. My drug use had increased exponentially, and I essentially roamed the streets, from couch to couch; the desire to take my life growing by the day. I went to the VA in Battle Creek in an attempt to stop the nose dive that my life had fell into. It was there that I met Alex, who proved to be a beacon of hope for me. Alex and I had many conversations about life and manhood, and this was exactly what I needed. He and Gloria selflessly opened their home to me, and I suddenly had a family. They literally saved my life. Alex was instrumental in my coming to myself and making the necessary changes to get off drugs for good. That was Alex. He didn't just extend himself to me; he was just a good man all around, and that's the way I'll always remember him. He was a man through and through. There was certain things that he just wouldn't do, and I admired that in him. After all, if a man doesn't stand for something, he'll truly fall for anything. One final salute to Alex. At ease, soldier!

To my eternal brother- in- arms, from Malcolm Hanks, Detroit, Mi.

“ All praise to God!
To the ministers on the roster, my family, and Alex's closest friends!
I wish I could be there with you today;but due to circumstances beyond my control I had to stay home with my daughters!
I would like for you all to know even though our lives weren't always together; God knew our destiny. With all of you in my life it has been forever changed!
My Brother Alex will forever be missed. I can still remember our last time together. Him, Charlie, Louise, and I spent the day together. A day full of laughter, joy, and fun! I will always remember the day.
I love you all and we all loved him dearly but God loved him best.
No more pain, no more sorrow, until we see him on tomorrow! Be blessed family.

Your Oldest Sister,
Lela Moore
